

Innovative Agriculture in Every Field

Alexander Harley Seeds is a privately owned company based in Scotland which produces a wide range of agricultural seeds and plant propagating material in Scotland, England and Australia. It also has interests in agricultural machinery and farmland.

Harley's seeds are located in a beautiful rural area of Perth and Kinross, Scotland, but require effective communications links between remote companies within the Group. ADSL and leased lines were not an option on some sites and asymmetric service delivery is far from ideal for sharing data between sites. Harley's solution was to commission Datavilla to design and install a high speed wireless network linking remote sites, to carry voice and data services with no recurring annual costs. File sharing, email and telephony are all now seamlessly linked with many years reliable operation. This could be your solution!
